Inquiring Minds Want to Know

From Debbie Goodrow: I contacted Polyform (Sculpey. Premo!) directly (easily done through their website) to ask about clay becoming so much stiffer over time, even if it is still in the original wrapper, and stored properly. I questioned if there was a better way to be storing it so it did NOT become still.

This is the reply I got:

Thank you for contacting Polyform. The polymer clays are a consumable product and not meant to be stored for years and years. Over time the pvc resin particles swell and the plasticizer migrates into the resin particles and causes the polymer clay to become firmer. This happens faster when the temperatures are warmer but this can still happen when the polymer clays are stored at room temperature over a long period of time.

When you add the liquid clay conditioner in the clay you are adding back the plasticizer to the matrix and therefore it will make the clay softer and more pliable.

For Sale:

Diane Villano received an email from Annette Chittenden who has decided that polymer clay is not for her. She has the following items for sale:

“For $20.00 I have 30 new unopened cakes of polymer clay, plus a few supplies (cutting blade, etc). Can you pass on to the polymer clay guild this info? My phone number is 203-671-4656. I will deliver the bin to anyone who wants it - provided they are in the shoreline area - or I could deliver it to Hagaman library at one of your meetings.”

Additional info as requested:

Here is what I have - a picture is worth a thousand words - and it all goes as a block - all or nothing -haha! That’s the way I do it!!!! I don’t know if you can see clearly in photo but there’s a clear plexiglass roller, a long blade and a small jar of pearlX. So I can drop them off at Hagaman Library at your next meeting or give people my e-mail and I will make arrangements to get it to them!
 Annette

P.S. There is also a few opened ones included and some rolled out pieces that I was not able to deal with!
 I forgot about the pasta machine!!!!!! That can go with the stuff for $5.00!

Sculpt a Dragon from Christy Sherman ~ 10 am - 3 pm

This workshop will be an in depth exploration of all things dragon as we sculpt one in relief. We will work in polymer clay, and cover different techniques to sculpt, model, and texture the dragon. Relief sculpture is a marvelous combination of 2 and 3 dimensional techniques, drawing and sculpting at the same time.

This is a great starting point for anyone who wants to try sculpting or polymer clay. No experience needed, and techniques will apply to any sculpting project you do, not just dragons.

$100 Members $135 Non-members $25 Material fee - All materials included

(NOTE - for anyone who's already into polymer clay, let me know if you'll be attending. I can send you the materials list so you can waive that fee.)

Silk Screening with Mica Powders ~ 9 am - 2 pm

Silk screens create lovely patterns on polymer clay. Usually, paint is used. Learn how to use mica powders, such as the Pearl X brand, to create patterns on polymer clay. Uses of the resulting sheets and protection of the surface after baking will be discussed. Materials: Participants will need clay in your choice of colors, pasta machine, glossy work surface, sharp tissue blades, jewelry findings if you wish, and other clay tools of your choice. Also useful are Magic Gloss, PYM2 or other preservative help to protect the finish after baking. Instructor will have clay available for sale if desired. The instructor will also have a few silk screens for sharing, or you may bring your own

Surface Embroidery with Polymer ~ 9 am - 2 pm

Embroidery with needle and thread can take a while. With polymer, we're able to produce the same effect, and it's fun! Come learn how to embroider with clay. This process uses tiny amounts of clay, on a clay base, and the end result is lovely. Participants will need clay in your choice of colors, pasta machine, glossy work surface, sharp tissue blades, knitting needle, tapestry needle or toothpicks, jewelry findings if you wish, and other clay tools of your choice.
